

fast Curtiss Attack Plane at the instant of releasing a rain of destruction in the shape of half a ton of high explosive bombs. Under Presidential ruling, foreign governments must wait two years before buying planes embodying new principles found in American ships.

Thirty-two neighbors and friends of B. B. Farwell gave him the surprise party of his birthday last evening. Cards were exchanged and refreshments consisting of candy, popcorn and four birthday cakes were served. Fourteen members of Alder River gave attended the three-point meeting with Upton and Bear River granges at Bear River Grange Hall, early Saturday evening.

Rev. James MacKillop and Miss Palmer conducted services at the church last night. It was National Sunday. The members of Alder River Grange attended. Sunday School was immediately after the church services.

Robert Blackford of Bowdoinham was in town Monday and Tuesday.

Fancy Dry Apricots
Orange Peel
Lemon Peel
Citron

Mrs. Cora Abbott is in the Rum-ford Community Hospital for treatment.
Pearl Barnett had pneumonia last week but is better.
Kendrick Judkins had an attack of bronchitis last week.
The play and shadow pictures given by the Young Peoples Society last week was very successful.

Dates
Figs
Oranges

Oranges
Bananas
Lemons
Large CHICKENS
TURKEYS
DUCKS

L. W. Ramsell
CO.
BETHEL, MAINE

Vol. No. 24 Issued by L. E. Davis, Bethel November 19, 1986

"Did you find a difference between the city and the country, Hiram?"

"They ain't no difference. In the city you go to bed feeling all in and you go to bed, and you feel fine and you feel all in."

"Not a fish, anyway. First Sallor—I tell you, a heifer is not a kind of a pig—it's a kind of sheep."

"Second Ditto—I don't believe it, but let's leave it to the boss'n Hey, Bill, in what is a heifer, a pig?"

"To tell the truth, mate, I dunno as there's very much about any kind of poultry."

"What are gentlemen farmers?"

"Gentlemen farmers are farmers who raise their stock by the storm laws. but very little else."

"What Mule Hild root on?"

"Kenneth Wight's house looks pretty nice."

"We are also turning all him wind-ws & frames."

"You ought to brace up and show your wife what is boss around."

"I don't have to already know."

"Un Methodists had to put off 'til Monday the concert scheduled to introduce that pipe organ we have having installed in the meantime we have widened the front platform and Charlie has built up a couple of columns for the case. They look just as good as "store" ones too."

Two hired hands from neighboring farms were telling each other their troubles. One was complaining about not getting enough to eat.

"Just this morning," he said, "Old Man White says to me, 'How many pancakes you eat already this morning?'"

"I told her I didn't have no occasion to eat 'em."

"Well," says the other, "last one was the twenty-sixth."

"An it made me mad I let get up to the table and went to work without any breakfast."

Thanksgiving service at the Baptist Church on Sunday, Nov. 22 at 10.45 A. M. Gifts of food will be brought for the Thanksgiving baskets this year. Special music by the choir and sermon by the Pastor "Let us give thanks."

Let Our Engineer Be Your Chief
Less Than Two Hours to Portland on Ask Your Local Agent; Call O. A. or Write to
G. A. Harrison, G.A.P.D.,
Portland, Maine

or Write or Phone
G. A. Harrison, G.A.P.D.,
Portland, Maine
G. T. RY. STATION
Phone 4-9707

Simply install an ELECTRIC storage type water heater and you need never give your hot water problems any further attention. It's entirely automatic with an unfailing supply ready for your use!

With a storage type heater you get 1c ELECTRICITY for all in excess of 200 kilowatt hours a month regardless of how it is used. Customers who have full electric service can usually save enough with 1c ELECTRICITY to pay for the heater.

Come In and let us tell you about the ONE CENT water heating rate.

CENTRAL MAINE
POWER COMPANY

USE 1c ELECTRICITY

Classified Advertising

Twenty-five words or less, one week, 25 cents, second week, 15 cents; each additional week, 10 cents. Each word more than 25, one cent per word the first week, and one-half cent per word each succeeding week. Any changes of copy after first insertion will be considered a new advertisement and charged accordingly. Cards of Thanks, 75c. Resolutions of Respect, $1.00. Reading notices in town items, 10c per line. All advertising subject to approval.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Set One Horse Sleds in good condition. TOM KENNEDY, RFD 3, Bethel.

PIGS FOR SALE—Four to Five weeks, 14 JORDEN OLSON, RFD 1, Phone 23-7.

FOR SALE—Seven room house, bathroom, all floors throughout, hot air furnace. Garage $1800. Inquire at CHURCH OFFICE.

MISCELLANEOUS

BIRTHDAY AND FRUIT CAKES made to order. MRS. W. F. CLARK, Phone 64-4.

Veterans, Ammunition, and Traps—Supplies, bought, sold, and exchanged by H. I. DEAN, Bethel, Maine. Dealer in Raw Furs, Deer Skins, Hides and Pelts.

Maine Crop Production As Reported for 1936

The Maine potato crop prospects increased about 2% over last month's expectations, according to a joint report released by the Maine and United States Departments of Agriculture.

In Maine the outlook at 42,120,000 bushels compares with 38,850,000 harvested last year and 44,074,000 bushels the five year average, 1924-1932. Weather conditions during October were unfavorable to the completion of harvesting. Yields are extremely variable this year, though turning out somewhat better than was expected a month ago. Late blight rot and freeze damage indicate probability of considerable shrinkage in storage stocks. The potato crop for the United States is now estimated at 332 million bushels compared with 338 million harvested last year and 372 million bushels the five year average, 1924-1932. Some loss from freeze damage and rot are reported for important northern states but losses from these sources are not expected to be greater than usual.

The total production of apples in Maine is estimated at 670,000 bushels which is only about 50% of last year's crop and 49% of the five year average, 1924-1932. Baldwin in Maine are a light crop this year being reported at 50% of a full crop. McIntosh are reported as 24% of a full crop. Wealthy 45% Northern Spy 50% and Red Davis 50%. The commercial production of 400,000 bushels compares with 600,000 bushels last year and a five year average production of 1,147,000 bushels. The 1936 commercial crop in the United States totals 64 million bushels compared with 54 million in 1935 and with the five year average of 58 million bushels.

Ruckwheat yields in Maine are reported below average but about one bushel above last year. The yield of dry beans of 340 pounds per acre to the same as last year and the five year average. Protein levels go to 1000 of dried beans in the United States is estimated at 10,200,000 100 pound bags which compares with 13,799,000 100 lb bags harvested last year.

Start two and a half million far gone. A new market came on all of the food products on perfectly through 94% organizations which and more than a billion and a half dollar worth of produce to the 1936 season.

Business show that until 1936 the business was more than one billion dollars more than last year. The business was more than one billion dollars more than last year. The business was more than one billion dollars more than last year.

THE BEAUTY FROM BUFFALO

By R. H. WILKINSON

I HAD begun to despair of Marcia Venn. Venn was her most recent name. Her sixth. Yes, Marcia had been married six times. And she was only twenty-five. Once she had lived with a husband eight months. That was the longest. His name was Tommy Harris. We all admired him.

I had begun to despair of Marcia because I felt that she had the makings of a fine wife. I don't know why. Instinct, I guess. Her choice of mates to date included a wide variety. An artist, a soldier, an explorer, a politician, a baseball player. None had suited her. And now she was married to good old Jim Venn. Jim was a business man. Needless to say, Marcia was the most beautiful woman in Buffalo. She had more than beauty. That indefinable something that is a woman's most cherished gift. She always got what she wanted, except in a husband. The five that she had tried lacked it. We wondered about Jim Venn. Good old Jim Venn.

Jim himself told me the story. There was a wild desperate look in his eyes, which presently gave way to relief.

"They were happy the first month. Marcia and her husband were always happy the first month. A week later Marcia bought a new coat. Mike. She had it sent out from one of the most expensive downtown shops. When Jim came home she was waiting for him with the coat on.

"How do you like it?" she asked and pointed to him.

"How much did it cost?" said Jim.

Marcia stopped prouderly. "Jim Venn, what a thing to say! What ever was the cost to do with how it looks?"

"A lot," said Jim. "If it cost over a hundred bucks, it would look like a lot to me."

Marcia stared at him. She was incredulous. Surely, he had said the significance of what he had said slipped into her brain. A sob escaped her lips. "You wretch! You miserable wretch!"

Jim arose over to the table and took the box in which the coat had come. He picked up a

At twelve o'clock she went up stairs. Jim was snoring comfortably. When he awoke the next morning Marcia's bed was empty. He groaned and muttered. Well, well! The most beautiful girl in Buffalo, the girl with the perfect figure, the girl who was down in the kitchen setting up a breakfast for a full-fledged sixth wife and thing it.

Jim was really hell-bent. More over he loved Marcia more than the other five husbands put together. He would have killed himself if she left him. But he was smart. Smart and desperate. Smart enough to analyze the dispositions of the other five desperate enough to put into execution the one form of treatment Marcia hadn't expected. And it had worked.

You see Marcia hadn't known what it was she wanted in a husband. It was told her it was what Jim Venn offered, she'd have told you you were crazy. She'd still tell you. For she's never found the answer. But then she's no longer interested. It's too being a little bit different and in fact in fact.

New York and California each had more than two million motor vehicles registered in 1935. Five other states had more than one million. Almost half of the 26,331,932 automobile registrations in 1935 were accounted for by eight states: New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Texas and New Jersey.

BORN In Bethel, Nov. 14, to the wife of Clifford Cole, a son, Allan Emory.

DEED In Kennelbunkport, Mrs. Mattie George, formerly of Milton.

In Boston, Mass., Nov. 14, Mrs. Alice P. Holt, widow of John V. Holt of Andover, Mass., aged 51 years.

in his eyes. "So!" he said. "You can't be a lady." And with his open palm he smacked her down on the dican again.

Marcia couldn't believe it. Imagine the most beautiful girl in Buffalo, a girl with six husbands to her credit, being smacked down by a mere Jim Venn. Words wouldn't come. She opened and closed her mouth like a fish out of water.

Jim laughed cruelly, harshly, tauntingly. Marcia found her voice. "Brute! Beast! Insect! This is the end! The very end! I'll not stay in this house another minute!"

"Yes you will," said Jim. "You're not going to make a fool of me." He picked her up. She struggled, fought, bit, screamed. But he carried her into the bedroom and dumped her unceremoniously on to the bed. "When you can quit your howling and blubbering you can come out and get my dinner." At the door he paused. "And if you break one thing, it'll come out of your allowance."

He slammed the door and locked it. Marcia pushed on the other side. She screamed, threatened, wept, kicked. But she didn't break anything. An hour later she went into a conference with herself, decided on other tactics. Sweetly she called to Jim.

"Darling, I'm sorry. And—and hungry. I'd like to get my dinner."

Jim let her out. But he didn't take her into his arms and kiss her. He didn't apologize and ask forgiveness. Instead he told her he had returned the milk coat, stopped all her charge accounts, and reminded her that if she ever did anything crazy again he'd divorce her.

Marcia's lips quivered. Angry tears brimmed in her eyes. "Divorce me! You will divorce me! Why?" She stopped. Jim looked as though he were going to hit her again. He said:

"You'd better get my dinner. We're staying in tonight. I'm sick of horsing around to your damned parties. I want a home and a wife, not a house with a woman who visits me occasionally."

Marcia caught on. She went out and got his dinner. She tried to make up while they were eating. But Jim wasn't in the mood for it. He went to bed early, and didn't kiss her good night.

Marcia sat up by herself for a long time. She was angry and humiliated, conscious of an annoying feeling of frustration. She planned dire things. She would get her revenge. She would do this and that and then so. Oh, would she humble that man!

At twelve o'clock she went up stairs. Jim was snoring comfortably. When he awoke the next morning Marcia's bed was empty. He groaned and muttered. Well, well! The most beautiful girl in Buffalo, the girl with the perfect figure, the girl who was down in the kitchen setting up a breakfast for a full-fledged sixth wife and thing it.

Jim was really hell-bent. More over he loved Marcia more than the other five husbands put together. He would have killed himself if she left him. But he was smart. Smart and desperate. Smart enough to analyze the dispositions of the other five desperate enough to put into execution the one form of treatment Marcia hadn't expected. And it had worked.

You see Marcia hadn't known what it was she wanted in a husband. It was told her it was what Jim Venn offered, she'd have told you you were crazy. She'd still tell you. For she's never found the answer. But then she's no longer interested. It's too being a little bit different and in fact in fact.

New York and California each had more than two million motor vehicles registered in 1935. Five other states had more than one million. Almost half of the 26,331,932 automobile registrations in 1935 were accounted for by eight states: New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Texas and New Jersey.

BORN In Bethel, Nov. 14, to the wife of Clifford Cole, a son, Allan Emory.

DEED In Kennelbunkport, Mrs. Mattie George, formerly of Milton.

In Boston, Mass., Nov. 14, Mrs. Alice P. Holt, widow of John V. Holt of Andover, Mass., aged 51 years.

in his eyes. "So!" he said. "You can't be a lady." And with his open palm he smacked her down on the dican again.

Marcia couldn't believe it. Imagine the most beautiful girl in Buffalo, a girl with six husbands to her credit, being smacked down by a mere Jim Venn. Words wouldn't come. She opened and closed her mouth like a fish out of water.

Jim laughed cruelly, harshly, tauntingly. Marcia found her voice. "Brute! Beast! Insect! This is the end! The very end! I'll not stay in this house another minute!"

"Yes you will," said Jim. "You're not going to make a fool of me." He picked her up. She struggled, fought, bit, screamed. But he carried her into the bedroom and dumped her unceremoniously on to the bed. "When you can quit your howling and blubbering you can come out and get my dinner." At the door he paused. "And if you break one thing, it'll come out of your allowance."

He slammed the door and locked it. Marcia pushed on the other side. She screamed, threatened, wept, kicked. But she didn't break anything. An hour later she went into a conference with herself, decided on other tactics. Sweetly she called to Jim.

"Darling, I'm sorry. And—and hungry. I'd like to get my dinner."

Jim let her out. But he didn't take her into his arms and kiss her. He didn't apologize and ask forgiveness. Instead he told her he had returned the milk coat, stopped all her charge accounts, and reminded her that if she ever did anything crazy again he'd divorce her.

Marcia's lips quivered. Angry tears brimmed in her eyes. "Divorce me! You will divorce me! Why?" She stopped. Jim looked as though he were going to hit her again. He said:

"You'd better get my dinner. We're staying in tonight. I'm sick of horsing around to your damned parties. I want a home and a wife, not a house with a woman who visits me occasionally."

Marcia caught on. She went out and got his dinner. She tried to make up while they were eating. But Jim wasn't in the mood for it. He went to bed early, and didn't kiss her good night.

Marcia sat up by herself for a long time. She was angry and humiliated, conscious of an annoying feeling of frustration. She planned dire things. She would get her revenge. She would do this and that and then so. Oh, would she humble that man!

At twelve o'clock she went up stairs. Jim was snoring comfortably. When he awoke the next morning Marcia's bed was empty. He groaned and muttered. Well, well! The most beautiful girl in Buffalo, the girl with the perfect figure, the girl who was down in the kitchen setting up a breakfast for a full-fledged sixth wife and thing it.

Jim was really hell-bent. More over he loved Marcia more than the other five husbands put together. He would have killed himself if she left him. But he was smart. Smart and desperate. Smart enough to analyze the dispositions of the other five desperate enough to put into execution the one form of treatment Marcia hadn't expected. And it had worked.

You see Marcia hadn't known what it was she wanted in a husband. It was told her it was what Jim Venn offered, she'd have told you you were crazy. She'd still tell you. For she's never found the answer. But then she's no longer interested. It's too being a little bit different and in fact in fact.

New York and California each had more than two million motor vehicles registered in 1935. Five other states had more than one million. Almost half of the 26,331,932 automobile registrations in 1935 were accounted for by eight states: New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Texas and New Jersey.

BORN In Bethel, Nov. 14, to the wife of Clifford Cole, a son, Allan Emory.

DEED In Kennelbunkport, Mrs. Mattie George, formerly of Milton.

In Boston, Mass., Nov. 14, Mrs. Alice P. Holt, widow of John V. Holt of Andover, Mass., aged 51 years.

in his eyes. "So!" he said. "You can't be a lady." And with his open palm he smacked her down on the dican again.

Marcia couldn't believe it. Imagine the most beautiful girl in Buffalo, a girl with six husbands to her credit, being smacked down by a mere Jim Venn. Words wouldn't come. She opened and closed her mouth like a fish out of water.

Jim laughed cruelly, harshly, tauntingly. Marcia found her voice. "Brute! Beast! Insect! This is the end! The very end! I'll not stay in this house another minute!"

"Yes you will," said Jim. "You're not going to make a fool of me." He picked her up. She struggled, fought, bit, screamed. But he carried her into the bedroom and dumped her unceremoniously on to the bed. "When you can quit your howling and blubbering you can come out and get my dinner." At the door he paused. "And if you break one thing, it'll come out of your allowance."

He slammed the door and locked it. Marcia pushed on the other side. She screamed, threatened, wept, kicked. But she didn't break anything. An hour later she went into a conference with herself, decided on other tactics. Sweetly she called to Jim.

"Darling, I'm sorry. And—and hungry. I'd like to get my dinner."

Jim let her out. But he didn't take her into his arms and kiss her. He didn't apologize and ask forgiveness. Instead he told her he had returned the milk coat, stopped all her charge accounts, and reminded her that if she ever did anything crazy again he'd divorce her.

Marcia's lips quivered. Angry tears brimmed in her eyes. "Divorce me! You will divorce me! Why?" She stopped. Jim looked as though he were going to hit her again. He said:

"You'd better get my dinner. We're staying in tonight. I'm sick of horsing around to your damned parties. I want a home and a wife, not a house with a woman who visits me occasionally."

Marcia caught on. She went out and got his dinner. She tried to make up while they were eating. But Jim wasn't in the mood for it. He went to bed early, and didn't kiss her good night.

Marcia sat up by herself for a long time. She was angry and humiliated, conscious of an annoying feeling of frustration. She planned dire things. She would get her revenge. She would do this and that and then so. Oh, would she humble that man!

At twelve o'clock she went up stairs. Jim was snoring comfortably. When he awoke the next morning Marcia's bed was empty. He groaned and muttered. Well, well! The most beautiful girl in Buffalo, the girl with the perfect figure, the girl who was down in the kitchen setting up a breakfast for a full-fledged sixth wife and thing it.

Jim was really hell-bent. More over he loved Marcia more than the other five husbands put together. He would have killed himself if she left him. But he was smart. Smart and desperate. Smart enough to analyze the dispositions of the other five desperate enough to put into execution the one form of treatment Marcia hadn't expected. And it had worked.

You see Marcia hadn't known what it was she wanted in a husband. It was told her it was what Jim Venn offered, she'd have told you you were crazy. She'd still tell you. For she's never found the answer. But then she's no longer interested. It's too being a little bit different and in fact in fact.

New York and California each had more than two million motor vehicles registered in 1935. Five other states had more than one million. Almost half of the 26,331,932 automobile registrations in 1935 were accounted for by eight states: New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Texas and New Jersey.

BORN In Bethel, Nov. 14, to the wife of Clifford Cole, a son, Allan Emory.

DEED In Kennelbunkport, Mrs. Mattie George, formerly of Milton.

In Boston, Mass., Nov. 14, Mrs. Alice P. Holt, widow of John V. Holt of Andover, Mass., aged 51 years.

in his eyes. "So!" he said. "You can't be a lady." And with his open palm he smacked her down on the dican again.

Marcia couldn't believe it. Imagine the most beautiful girl in Buffalo, a girl with six husbands to her credit, being smacked down by a mere Jim Venn. Words wouldn't come. She opened and closed her mouth like a fish out of water.

Jim laughed cruelly, harshly, tauntingly. Marcia found her voice. "Brute! Beast! Insect! This is the end! The very end! I'll not stay in this house another minute!"

"Yes you will," said Jim. "You're not going to make a fool of me." He picked her up. She struggled, fought, bit, screamed. But he carried her into the bedroom and dumped her unceremoniously on to the bed. "When you can quit your howling and blubbering you can come out and get my dinner." At the door he paused. "And if you break one thing, it'll come out of your allowance."

He slammed the door and locked it. Marcia pushed on the other side. She screamed, threatened, wept, kicked. But she didn't break anything. An hour later she went into a conference with herself, decided on other tactics. Sweetly she called to Jim.

Mrs. Alice P. Holt

Bethel friends of Mrs. Alice Purlington Holt of Andover, Mass., are saddened to learn of her death which occurred in Boston Saturday.

Mrs. Holt was born in Bethel 61 years ago, the daughter of J. U. and Francetta (Woodbury) Purlington. Since her marriage to the late John V. Holt in 1901 she had lived in Andover.

Mrs. Holt leaves a son, Reginald W. Holt, of Manchester, Mass., her mother, Mrs. J. U. Purlington, and sister, Miss Belle Purlington, both of Andover; and a brother, Harry W. Purlington, of Beverly.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at her home, 74 Bartlett Street, Andover.

Planning Meals for School Children

A double-barrelled problem confronts mothers in every community in Maine now that school has begun, says Miss Leone Dakin, Extension foods specialist. Not only are they thinking about the school lunch, but they are planning breakfast and supper even more carefully than usual to be sure that Johnny and Mary get all the foods they need during the day to keep them well and healthy.

While mother packs the lunch box they eat a good hot breakfast to start the day right. Usually they have fruit of some kind, hot cooked cereal and toast, and milk to drink. And sometimes they have eggs also.

In their well planned lunch box they carry the following things: Sandwiches, fruit or vegetable, or both, cookies, plain cake, or gingerbread; milk, or cocoa; soup, carried in a thermos bottle, or custard carried in a jar; or in some towns they may have a hot dish served at school.

With such a pleasing and well balanced lunch, Mary and Johnny always bring the box home empty, and not because they have thrown anything away to get rid of it on the way home as I have known some youngsters to do when an unappetizing food has been included.

They finish the school day by having a good hot supper of simple, easily digested food an hour or two before going to bed at night. Recipes and suggestions for school lunches may be secured by writing to the Extension Service, University of Maine, Orono.

North Woodstock

Mrs. Newton Bryant of Greenwood visited her daughter, Mrs. Durward Long, one day last week. Elwell Hardy was at Frye, hunting last week. Everett Cole went with Claude Cushman to Washington County, hunting, and James Knights went to East B Hill, Upton. Frank Sweetser went with him. Mrs. Herman Cole and son Richard are staying at Francis Cole's while Everett is hunting.

Clinton Buck and son Kenneth were at East B Hill hunting last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Knights and week with Mrs. Knights' sister, children spent several days last week with Claude Cushman.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Coffin and baby have moved to Norway.

Walter Rusk has gone to Togus hospital.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

Herchel Abbott has been sick and also several others.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Rev. Herbert T. Wallace, Minister
Sunday, November 22nd

9:30 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. Morning Worship. Thanksgiving service. Sermon subject, "Our Inheritance."

6:30 p. m. Young People's Society. Instead of their regular meeting on Sunday evening the Fortnightly Forum has accepted an invitation to spend a social evening at the Manse on Monday at 8 o'clock. All the members are invited.

METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. P. J. Clifford, Minister
9:45. Church School.
11:00. Thanksgiving Service.
6:30 Epworth League.

7:30 Evening Worship and last song with the old organ which is going to Chebeague Island next week. Come and say good bye to an old friend. New velvet drapes bought by the choir—and we hope new pews and lectern.

Don't forget the Recital Monday evening by Howard Clark, one of Maine's finest organists, and hear the big organ for the first time. A full and fine program is promised.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday School at 10 o'clock
Services Sunday morning at 10:45
"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 22d.

The Golden Text is: "The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light." (Matt. 6:22)

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalms 66:8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As astronomy reveals the human perception of the movement of the solar system, so Christian Science reverses the seeming relation of Soul and body and makes body tributary to Mind, Soul, or Spirit; God, unchangeable and eternal, and man coexists with and reflects Soul, God, for man is God's image" (Page 119:27-31, 120:4-6).

Testimonial meetings at 7:30 p. m. on the second Wednesday of each month until May.

WEST BETHEL UNION CHURCH

Rev. Alton Verrill
9:30 a. m. Sunday School.
10:30 a. m. Morning Worship.
Subject: Why Thanksgiving?

7:30 p. m. Young People's Service.

Gloves, Mittens

Sweaters
Stockings
Ski Socks
AT
Brown's Variety Store
Bethel, Maine

ODEON HALL, Bethel

Adults 35c—Children 20c Show begins at 8:10 P. M.

Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20-21

LORETTA YOUNG—ROBERT TAYLOR in

Private Number

Chapter Ten of the Serial Thriller

"Adventures of REX AND RINTY"

BANK NIGHT, Tues., Nov. 24 $10 Cash

GEORGE RAFT, DOLORES COSTELLO in

Yours for the Asking

Advertise
ers Can Serve
You Well

Page XLII—Number 34